

Select the Year

2025

Average Salary

$134.24K

YoY Average Salary Growth

1.31%

Total Payroll

$54bn

YoY Payroll Growth

8.54%

Employee Count

405K

YoY Employee Growth

7.14%

Top Earner Salary

$1.91M

Highest Compensation reported by

Ontario Power Generation

Key Finding

- The average salary of a public sector employee listed in the Ontario Sunshine List in 2025 is around $134k. This is a marginal increase of just 1.31% over 2024 average salaries. The Consumer Price Index for 2025 persisted at 2.1%. Inflation outpacing the salary increase has reduced the purchasing power of employees in the Sunshine list.
- Across the 2023-2025 period, the top executive from Ontario Power Generation reported the highest salary of 1.9 million and 2.01 million in 2025 and 2024 respectively.

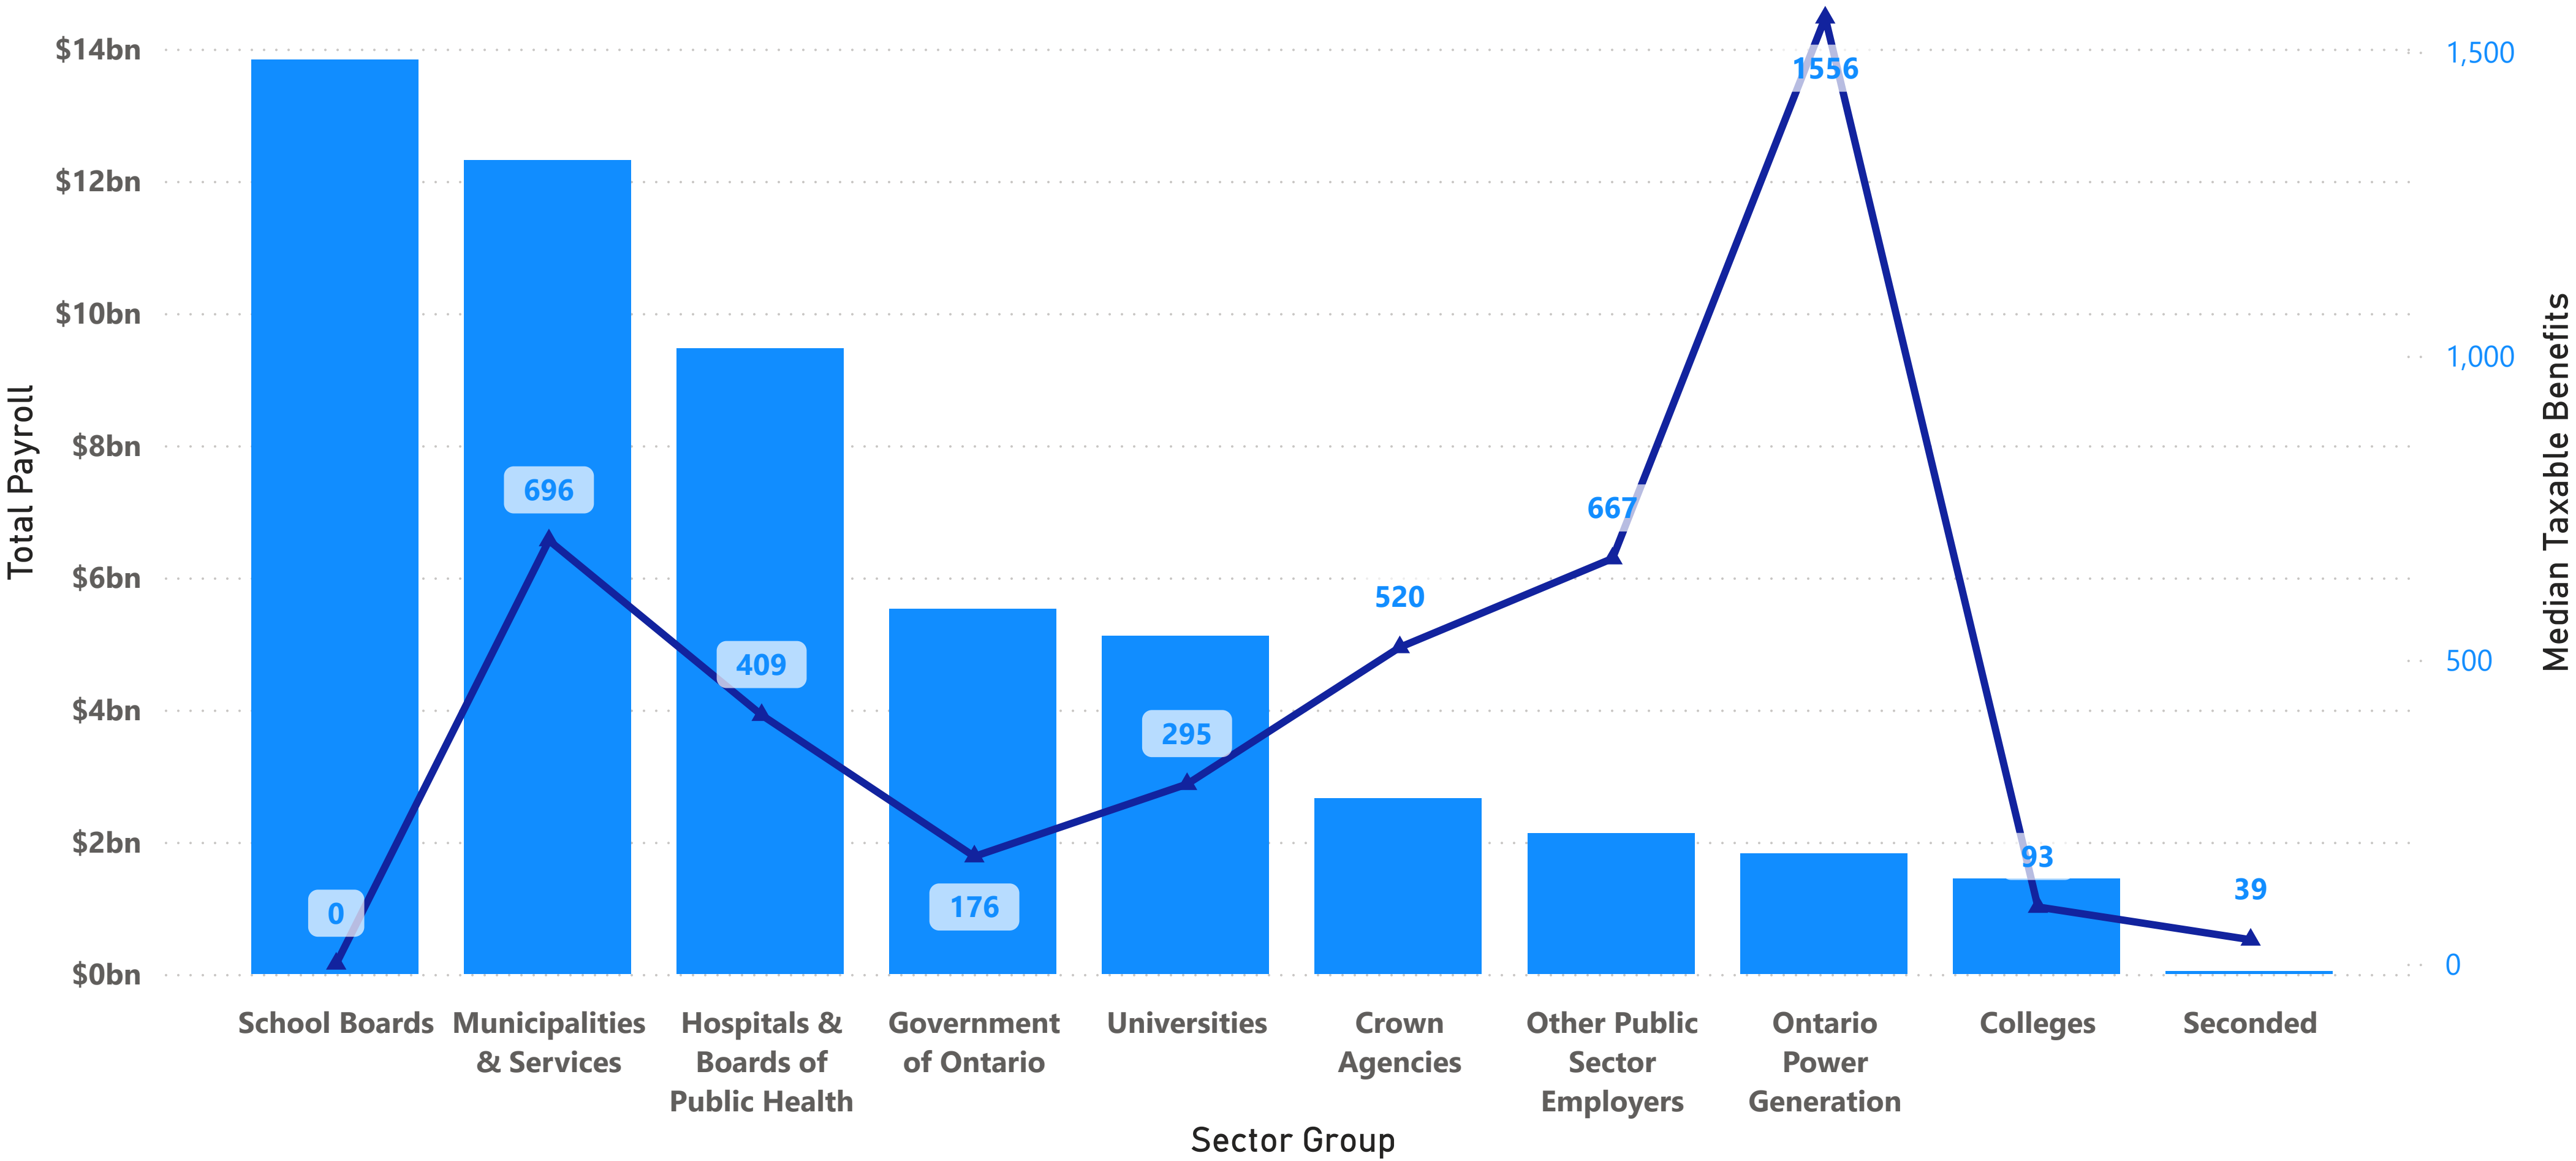

Total Payroll, Median Salary and Employee Count by Sector Group

Key Finding

Of all sectors, school boards had the highest employee count but with the lowest median salary. In contrast, Ontario Power Generation reported the highest median salary, despite having a much lower employee count. Across years, this pattern has held making Ontario Power Generation a stand out case with a smaller workforce but a higher median compensation year over year.

Total Payroll, Median Taxable Benefits and Employee Count by Sector Group

Key Finding
School Boards had the largest payroll size, albeit with the lowest median taxable benefits, while Ontario Power Generation had significantly higher median taxable benefits despite a smaller payroll size across the years

Select the Year

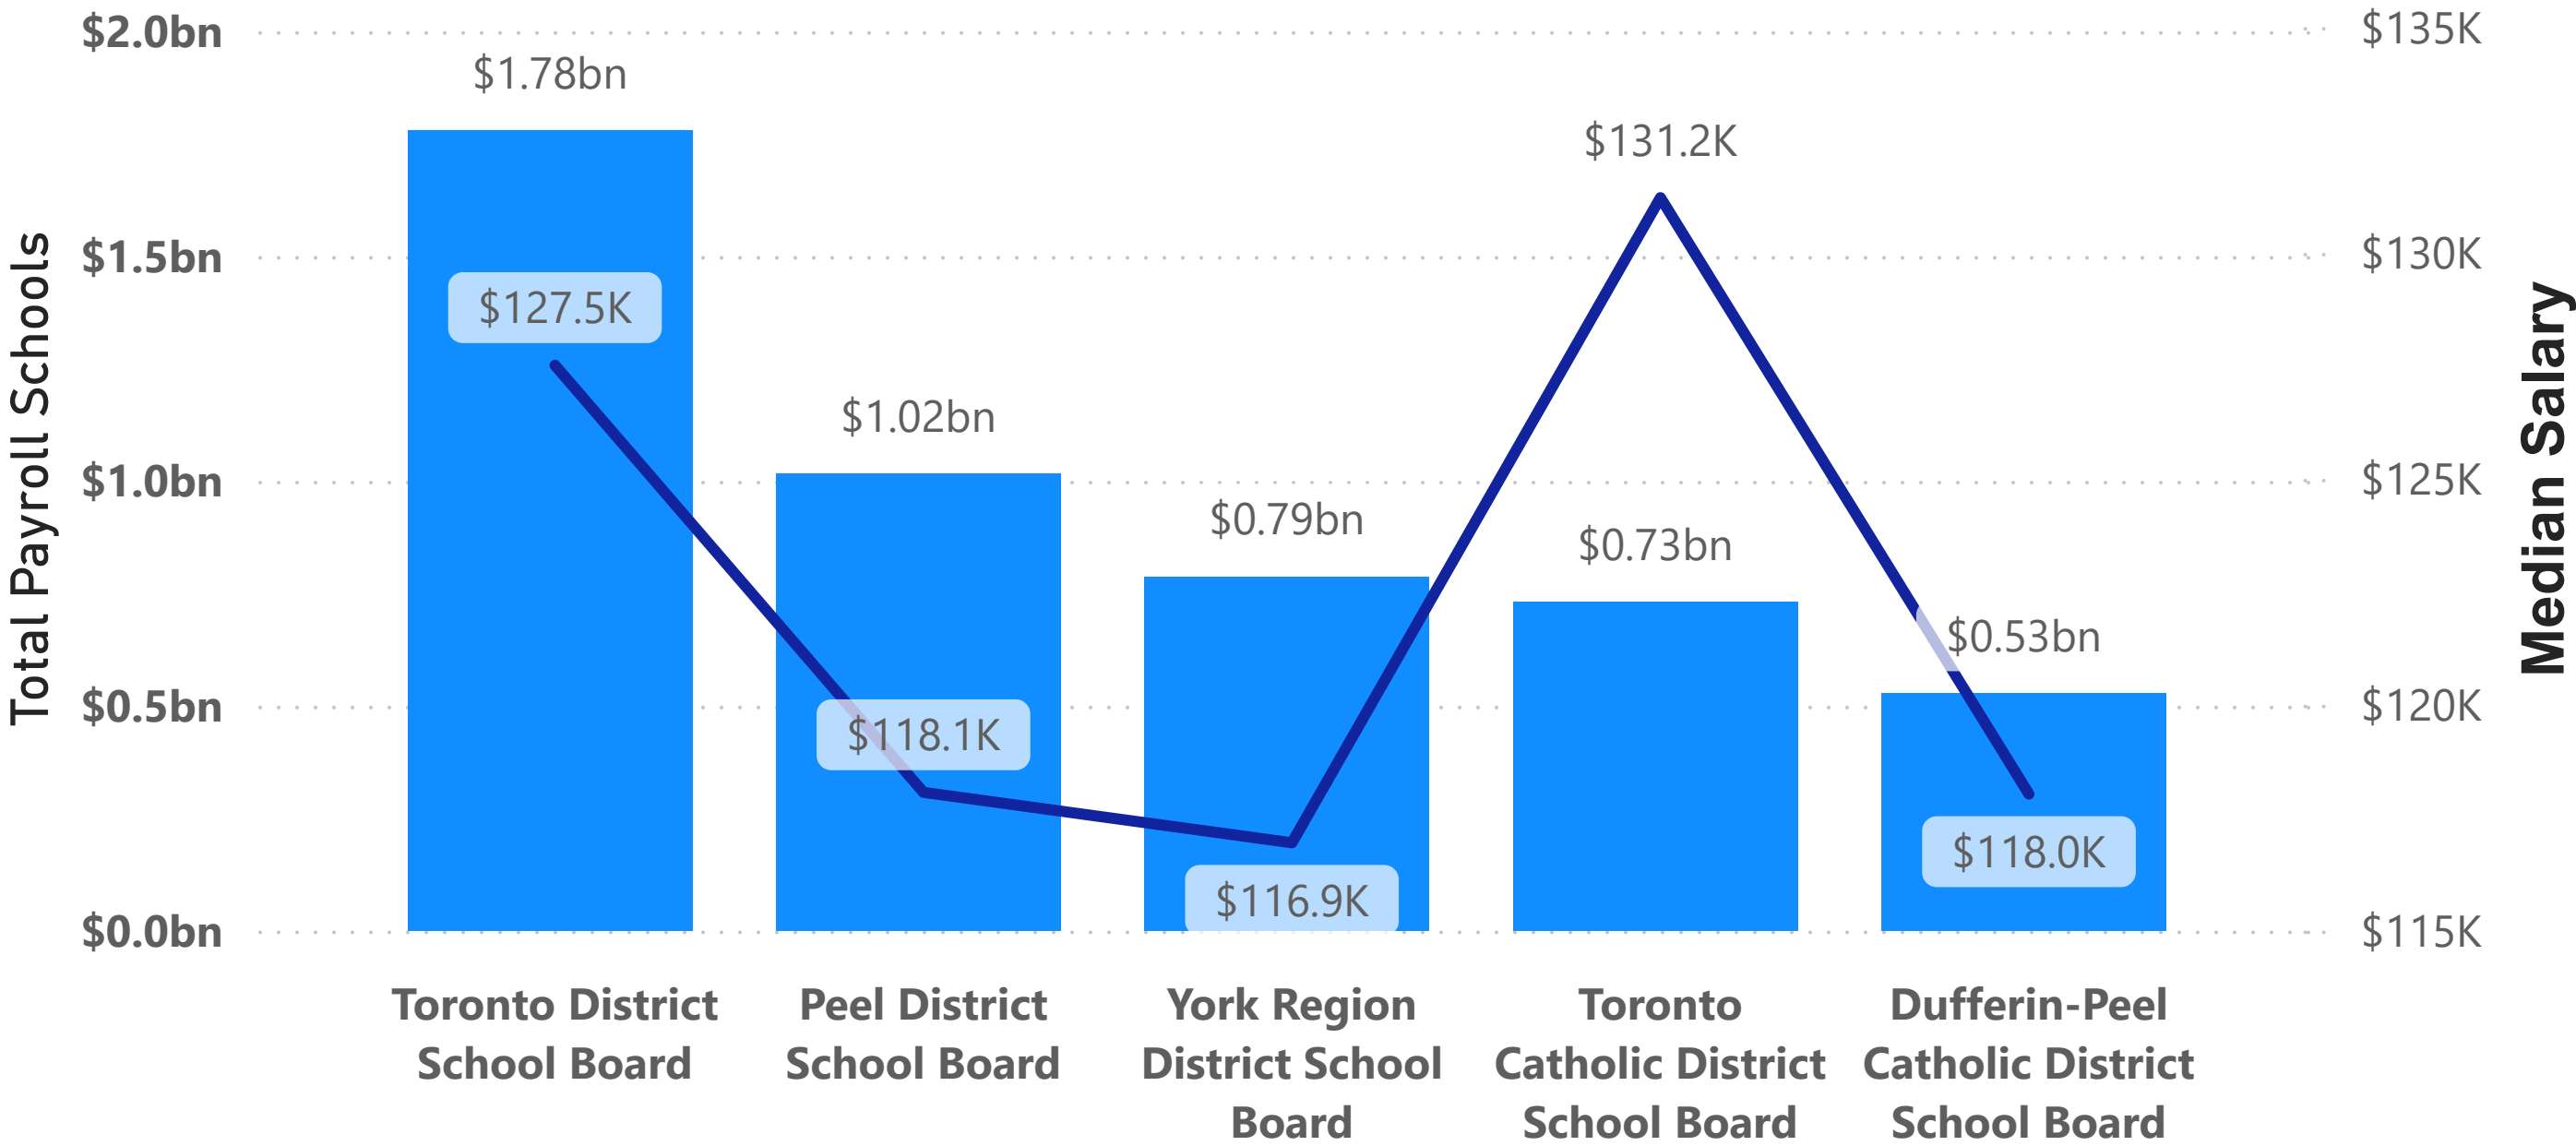

2025

▼

School Boards Payroll vs Overall Payroll

Top 5 Ontario School Boards by Payroll Size

Median Salary
across School Boards

$118K

Key Finding

- Overall, School Boards accounted for approximately one-quarter of the total Sunshine List payroll across all sectors.
- From 2023 to 2025, Toronto District School Board maintained the largest payroll among Ontario school board.
- In 2025, Toronto Catholic District School Board recorded a notable rise in median pay, surpassing its peers.